Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 02 January 2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicants' sole argument is generally that the applied reference does not have the reinforcing structure at least partially integrated inside the main body. In an attempt to support the sole argument, a dictionary definition is included in the argument. A dictionary definition cannot be entirely relied upon to define a term used in a claim to support patentability. It is well understood that, in the absence of a specific limiting definition in the Specification, an integrally formed structural part can be made of multiple pieces that, when assembled, form a single unit. See In re Morris, 127 F.3d 1048, 1054 (Fed. Cir. 1997).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 3-5 and 14-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by United States Patent Application Publication No. 2002/0001522 A1 (Mukherjee et al. hereinafter).

Mukherjee et al. show a compressor wheel for a turbocharger in FIG. 1, wherein the hub 16 is made from aluminum (paragraph 0016, lines 13-15). Fibers such as metal and polymer in a matrix form are alternatively the material of choice (paragraph 0016, lines 15-20). Regarding Applicants' species embodiment of FIG. 5 and claims 1 and 3-5, the Mukherjee et al. wheel comprises a reinforcing structure 22 located at the nave of the wheel which is pre-stressed such as by shrinking (see paragraph 0016) to impart a compressive stress in the impeller to oppose the centrifugal stress imposed on the rotating wheel (see paragraph 0014).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2 and 6-12 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
